Patton Clamps Vise on Metz

By WILLIAM FRYE

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Patton expanded a new bridgehead across the Moselle river north of Metz today, threatening the Germans' only usable railway connecting the fortress city with the Saar and developing a pincers grip on the enemy-held part of Thionville.

The German High Command said American troops had succeeded in "penetrating into Thionville."

Armored spearheads swinging around Metz from the south punched forward on a 20-mile front 17 miles south of the Saar.

One wedge by-passed the stronghold of Dieuze on its south flank and fanned out behind the famous World War battle town of Morhange on the north.

This wedge was reported to have reached Bermering, three miles east of Morhange, where French and Germans fought in one of the first big battles of the First World War, and reached Liderzing, five miles north of Dieuze, where flood waters loosed by Allied dam bombings protected Patton's right flank.

A front line dispatch said cavalry patrols ranged up to three miles beyond the right flank wedge driven between Morhange and Dieuze.

To the south the Seventh Army, fighting on a 15-mile front east of Rambervilliers and Bruyeres, captured villages a mile west of St. Die in the entrance to a Vosges pass, 33 miles from the Rhine.

Southeast of Metz the Germans were reported to be pulling out men and materiel before Patton's encircling threat, but they were destroying dams on canals and rivers northeast of the city and holding tight.

Front reports said they were pulling guns out of Metz itself, but supreme headquarters believed it unlikely a real evacuation was under way.

Only two railways remained to get the Germans out of Metz. Part of Thionville west of the Moselle was in American hands.

The 95th Infantry Division won the crossing and supreme headquarters announced it was being reinforced. The rail and highway town of Metzervisse, 5½ miles east of Uckange where the crossing was made, apparently was an immediate objective.

Patton now has two columns driving east north of Metz toward the Saar. Americans in the first bridgehead over the Moselle in the Koenigsmacher area turned back a German counterattack yesterday and the 90th Division won back the mile and a half wedge the enemy had managed to gain.

Due south of Metz, infantry of the Fifth Division fought through increasingly bitter defenses to the vicinity of Coin-sur-Seille.

WESTERN FRONT—Lt. Gen. Patton's Third Army is today reported as expanding a new bridgehead across the Moselle river, north of Metz, and is threatening to cut off the Nazis' only rail line out of the fortress city. Another arm of the American pincers has pushed three miles beyond Morhange, southeast of Metz.

Quake Bombs Batter Tirpitz

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP)—British bombers dumped more 12,000-pound earthquake bombs on the wounded German battleship Tirpitz early Sunday, the Air Ministry announced today.

The 35,000-ton superdreadnaught was caught in Tromso fjord along the bleak, northern coast of Norway

Manila Bombed Again; Tighten Leyte Squeeze

By Associated Press

The Japanese Domei news agency in a broadcast said "enemy" planes bombed Manila today. The broadcast claimed churches and homes were destroyed. No mention was made of damage to military installations.

American infantrymen closing in from three directions on flaming Ormoc inched through treacherous ravines and mountain heights of Leyte island today against well-equipped Japanese as enemy planes renewed strong suicide attacks on U. S. shipping in the Philippines.

Unconfirmed Tokyo broadcasts reported American warships shelled Iwo island, 750 miles south of Tokyo. Japanese-occupied Shanghai was bombed for the second time in three days and a Superfort today made another reconnaissance flight over Honshu, main island of Nippon.

No further attempt to reinforce the estimated 45,000 Nipponese soldiers on western Leyte were reported after 13 destroyers, seven transports, 29 plans and an estimated 10,000 men were lost in three successive days following air attacks on convoys in Ormoc bay.

Persistently attacking Japanese aircraft scored direct hits on two American ships in San Pedro bay on the other side of the island. Tokyo claimed two transports were sunk and seven damaged by suicide pilots. One broadcast asserted a battleship was sunk.

Eleven Japanese planes were lost in this and other air actions.

The U. S. 24th division which has been in almost continuous heavy fighting since landing in the Philippines Oct. 20, drove three miles forward along the right flank of the road to Ormoc. They captured the heights of Mt. Catabaran, 16 miles north of Ormoc from which American artillery can fire into the rear of the enemy's forward lines and rake supply convoys.

Dismounted first division cavalrymen, farther from the road but closer to Ormoc, ran into fierce Japanese resistance in the Mt. Pina saddle.

The 24th Corps, Gen. MacArthur announced, is "closing in both from the east and the south." The corps includes the Seventh Division which MacArthur hasn't mentioned for nearly a week when it was reported about 12 miles south of Ormoc, and the 96th Division fighting across Leyte's central mountains.

British Imperials converged on two sides of Kalamyo, 55 miles inside the Burma border, today and brought the key Japanese supply center under shell fire.

In the Irrawaddy valley, 160 miles to the northeast, Chinese advanced to within seven miles of Bhamo in an attack from the northeast.

YANKS SEIZE HEIGHTS—American troops on Leyte (arrows), have seized Mt. Catabran Heights in their drive on the Ormoc sector today, while other troops of the First Cavalry division are meeting "increased resistance" in the Mt. Pina area. No new Jap attempts to reinforce their battered Leyte garrisons have been reported since their tremendous ships losses on Saturday.

Yanks Quit Liuchow Air Base

CHUNGKING, Nov. 13 (AP)—The United States air base at Liuchow has been destroyed and evacuated, Maj.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer's headquarters announced late today. Members of U. S. 14th Air Force demolition teams set off the last bombs buried in runways and escaped in jeeps.

They left behind them the debris of the base which, after abandonment of Kwilin, was the main center of American airpower in Southwestern China. In the blackened embers was the last hope that eleventh-hour deliveries of American arms and ammunition would save the foothold.

Southeastern China, for a long time to come if not forever, thus has been eliminated as a possible zone of an inland offensive against the Japanese armies.

The 14th Air Force struck on all fronts over the week-end, destroying a Japanese navy tender, 13 river steamers, 14 locomotives and three rail bridges in French Indo China, an American communique said. Three radar stations were disabled at Yochow.

The Japanees in Kwangsi province, however, appeared on a verge of meeting from north and east to provide a continuous land route from Canton to Manchuria.

The Japanese already were in Liuchow and Wedemeyer's communique said:

"The air base at Liuchow was destroyed and evacuated Nov. 7. Most of the evacuation was by air. The Air Transport Command made a total of 44 trips to the field to bring out personnel and essential equipment."

Chinese reports on the Japanese drive in Kwangsi were grave.

Stalin Invites F. D., Churchill to Moscow

LONDON, Nov. 13 (INS)—Premier Stalin reportedly invited President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill to Moscow for a conference before Christmas, the London Evening News said today.

Reds Step Up Budapest Siege

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Red army, already in the southern outskirts of Budapest, increased its pressure on the besieged capital today with the capture of Monor, 14 miles to the southeast, and seizure of enemy positions within 30 miles to the east.

A broadcast Moscow communique announced the fall of Monor, which means the Russians had swept the Germans from nearly all of the 50-mile Budapest-Sznolnok trunk railway.

In the push from the east Soviet troops fanned out from captured Ujszasz, a junction on the Budapest-Szolnok railway, drove 11 miles through Tapiogyorgye and Tapioszele and captured Farmos, 30 miles from Budapest, the communique disclosed.

Meanwhile, a communique from Marshal Tito's headquarters said his troops were storming Skoplje, a city of 65,000 in southern Yugoslovia on the Belgrade-Athens railway.

8th 4 Miles From Ravenna

ROME, Nov. 13 (AP)—Patrols of the Eighth Army, crossing the Ghiaia canal below Ravenna, have moved into a thick pine forest four miles south of the city in an advance of two miles, Allied headquarters announced today.

The advance was made after German troops guarding the southern approaches to the city withdrew from some of their positions on the canal.

Next and final water obstacle before Ravenna is the Fiumi Uniti—less than a mile from the southern limits. The Fiumi Uniti, or United rviers, is formed by the Montone and Ronco.

Air Attacks Cut Nazi V-2 Fuel

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP) — Allied air attacks on German synthetic oil plants during the past two weeks were believed to have curtailed the production of fuel for flying bombs and V-2 rockets. Large sections of refineries in the Ruhr and elsewhere have been battered.

Each rocket burns an estimated 2500 gallons of fuel a minute, so that in a five-minute flight from their launching sites they use 12,500 gallons—to deliver between one and two tons of explosive.

Jap Radio Calls Russia Aggressor

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—Russia was named by the Tokyo radio as one of the aggressor nations of the world in a Sunday night broadcast recorded by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The statement from Tokyo was interpreted as a reply to Marshal Stalin's recent characterization of Japan as an agressor nation.

Plea for Girl in Theft Ring Fails, 8 Held

Asserting a 17-year-old Cambridge blonde apparently failed to realize the serious nature of charges against her, Judge Charles F. Gadsby sternly refused her mother's plea to reduce the $5000 bail he had imposed on the girl today in Somerville District Court.

He had just ordered Gertrude F. Young, 17, of Putnam ave., and two companions, Robert R. Craig, 17, of Western ave., Brighton, and Ralph E. Laviollete, 18, of Inman st., Cambridge, held in $5000 each for hearing Wednesday after they had pleaded not guilty to auto larceny.

"This girl doesn't seem to realize the serious nature of the charges," Judge Gadsby declared as her mother, Mrs. Edith Young, approached the bench and requested the bail be lowered.

"She sits here in the courtroom smiling, as though she were proud of what she has done. She is not showing the right attitude and I think she does not understand the serious nature of this offense. Under the circumstances, I think the bail is reasonable."

A girl, alleged companion of the trio, was ordered to appear in the juvenile session of the same court Wednesday.

Three other youths are being held as suspected members of the same youthful auto-stealing, hold-up and purse-snatching gang which police claim has taken 35 autos and staged holdups in various sections of Greater Boston in two months.

Police from Brookline, Athol and other communities viewed the three suspects today in the Cambridge police lineup.

Also involved in the roundup was Samuel Eranian, 32, of Elm st., Cambrdige, arrested on charge of receiving stolen property after police reported finding stolen tires and other accessories in his tire shop. He was held in $1000 for hearing Nov. 21 after pleading innocent before Judge Arthur P. Stone in East Cambridge court.

The four taken into Somerville court were arrested by Somerville police after a woman reported two youths and two girls were acting suspiciously in the rear of Dimick st.

Investigating officers found the quartet in a stolen car and Inspector Henry W. Roache alleged they had stolen a machine in Cambridge, which had poor tires, and another in Milton and were arguing about changing the tires when officers reached the scene.

Police alleged that the method of the youthful gang was to steal an auto in one community and then drive it to another where it was stripped of everything salable, including property in the cars, such as cameras, golf clubs and radios.

Some of the loot was recovered by police in a Cambridge tire shop, while other goods were found in Boston pawnshops.

ETHEL BARRYMORE

Girl Slayer's Funeral Kept Deep Secret

Secrecy today shrouded funeral arrangements for Wilfred J. Marquis, suicide-slayer of Marie Rose LaCombe, Salem High School girl, while Salem police disclosed the yhad pledged Marquis' family not to reveal when or where he would be buried.

At Salem Hospital, where an autopsy had been performed on the body, an official said only that it had been "turned over to relatives" yesterday. On no account would the spokesman amplify that statement.

City officials said no undertaker had filed the required certificate for burial at City Hall, although it would be essential if burial were to be held in Salem.

Meanwhile, Frank Szymanowicz, 26-year-old circus roustabout and former dishwasher, who repeatedly asserted and then denied he had been the ravisher of the 14-year-old LaCombe girl, was ordered held for a mental examination today by Judge George B. Sears in Salem District Court.

Szymanowicz pleaded not guilty to a charge of making lewd and lascivious statements to the police. He was removed to Salem Jail, where he will be examined by Dr. Clarence Bopner, superintendent of the Danvers State Hospital.

Authorities continued their search for the wrist watch and bracelet which were stripped from the LaCombe girl's body by her killer nad reportedly given by him to another girl. They are also searching for a notebook in which Marquis is believed to have written the names of other girls, including two he had boasted he would ravish.

Ethel Barrymore Has Pneumonia

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—Ethel Barrymore was taken to Flower Fifth Avenue Hospital today, suffering from "pneumonia and a cardiac condition," her physician, Dr. Louis Rene Kaufman, announced.

Miss Barrymore, 65 years old, cancelled her engagement in "Embezzled Heaven" Friday night after an attack of influenza. It was the first time in nearly 50 years that she had missed a New York performance.

Dr. Kaufman said the famous star had shown apparent improvement yesterday, but that this morning a pulmonary congestion developed with chills, a temperature of 103 degrees, 120 pulse and 32 respiration. Her heart condition was "fair."

Amnesia Woman Baffles Police

Unable to give police any clue to her identity, except that she thought her name was Marion Butler, a 45-year-old woman was under treatment for amnesia today at Boston State Hospital, Mattapan.

She was found wandering in the Fenway by Patrolman Joseph Murphy of the Roxbury Crossing Station, and taken to the hospital after questioning.

Police described her as 5 ft. tall, weighing 148 pounds, of medium complexion, blue eyes, brown hair, and without teeth. She was wearing a blue dress, black sweater, black hat and thistle-colored coat, black shoes and gray stockings.

Wilson Murder Trial Opened

With an extra venire called for the first time in a decade, John L. "Limey" Wilson, 28, and Francis J. Murray, 29, both of Charlestown, today faced trial in Suffolk Superior Court in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Catherine McGinley, 84-year-old widow, in her Charlestown home, Nov. 23, 1942.

JOHN L. (LIMEY) WILSON
Faces Murder Charge Today

Both men, held at Charles st. jail since arrest last March, are charged with first degree murder.

Francis J. Murray

Call for the big venire was issued by William M. Prendible, clerk of Suffolk Superior Court, apparently in anticipation of an unusual number of juror challenges.

Two of Boston's best known criminal lawyers head the defense staff, Atty. Hebert F. Callahan for Wilson and Atty. Francis Juggins for Murray.

The state already has called 40 witnesses, with the opening for the prosecution to be presented by Asst. Dist. Atty. Francis J. Hickey. Presiding justice is Judge Nelson P. Brown.

The dead body of the aged Charlestown victim was found badly beaten and partly burned in the kitchen of her home in Edgewood st.

Hub Carrie Nation on Loose Stones Windows of 7 Bars

By STANLEY CHIPMAN

It was the witching hour of 2 a. m. in the South End, the taverns having been closed and the witches having repaired to brew up a little something of their own.

Such of the citizenry as chanced to be abroad was either going about it business briskly, or happily stumbling home for a few cozy snores ere workaday tasks should call it forth again.

Then a feminine form, a bewitching silhouette, sprang from nowhere and landed gracefully in the middle of Castle st. The figure reached for a rock, indulged in a brief windup, hoisted one leg and heaved the dornick through a barroom window.

Startled pedestrians dodged fragments of glass and were about to go hellowing off for the police when they saw the rock thrower pause down the street outside another barroom. She was hefting another rock. Methodically, unhurriedly, she paced off what she considered a sporting distance and went into her windup again. She didn't miss.

"Carrie Nation rides again," hiccoughed one sportsman of the locality.

"I think some bartender must have refused to serve her,' conjectured another, not without sympathy.

"She fired that one like Molly Pitcher," admired another.

They followed her closely enough to hear her talking softly and merrily to herself.

She arrived in Washington st., took a quick survey and picked out a third barroom window. Once more she gave the window a fair chance, walking almost to the opposite curb before she as-

Lag in Blood Gifts Perils Men, Army Paper Says

PARIS, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes in an editorial today declared "there just isn't enough blood being given by the folks back home" for the bloodbank in the European theater of operations.

Under the editorial, headlined "it takes blood to win a war," appeared a picture of British girls donating blood with the caption: "Stack this against what medical headquarters reports about blood shipments from the United States to the ETO."

The editorial went on to say that medics have a quota of five pints of blood for every GI in combat and thus far they have been able to store up only two pints for each man in action.

"For the lack of that blood — some suffering GI—many suffering GI's—will die," the editorial stated.

"Strangely enough, blood donations in the States rise when the war news is bad and fall when it gets good," it continued. "But when the war news is good is when the blood is needed, because it takes blood—lots of blood —to make it good."

The editorial concluded "all honor to these patriotic British girls," adding "American patriots please copy."

Fund Aides Hear Abp. Cushing

Hundreds of volunteer workers in the Greater Boston United War Fund drive gathered at the City Club today to hear Archbishop Richard J. Cushing and hear latest reports from all money-raising divisions in the campaign.

Scheduled to offer the invocation was Rev. Theodore P. Ferry of Trinity Church. Music was given by Rakov and his WBZ orchestra.

At the same time, it was announced the Red Feather award of the day goes to Miss Katherine Sullivan of Pleasant st., Charlestown, a former employe in the outpatient department of City Hospital.

Formerly solicited through the Fund's public service division, she was missed this year because she has been retired. So she came to headquarters to leave her contribution, with the following comment: "You miss that Red Feather when you've once been used to it."

Deer Island Fugitive Hunted

Police throughout New England today searched for Norman Palmer, 26, of Northampton st., South End, who vanished from Deer Island only 11 days after completing a three-month sentence on a larceny charge.

Palmer had been kept locked up during recent weeks because he was wanted by New York authorities to serve out six years of prison time, but on the Sabbath was allowed to attend church services.

Guards accompanied him to the doors of the chapel, only to learn that he had slipped out another door and disappeared after the services were over.

Sea Collision Kills Coast Guardsman

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Nov. 13 —I. K. Augustynowicz of Dracut, Mass, a Coast Guardsman, was in critical condition at the Naval Hospital here today in the aftermath of the ramming of a Coast Guard craft in which another Coast Guardsman was killed and eight others rescued.

The vessel was rammed by a submarine while approaching Portsmouth harbor in a rainstorm and heavy sea. The dead man, according to a Navy Department announcement, was Chellis G. White of Kirksville, Mo.

Tregaskis Says European Winter Prime Factor in Prolonging War

By RICHARD TREGASKIS

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (INS)—In the ruined city of Aachen a week ago, as in prosperous New York today, I have found one question of predominant interest.

That is: When is it going to be over?

To a war-weary public, to the tired, dogged GI's in the mud holes of Germany, it would be comforting if there could be a fixed, oracular utterance about such a matter.

There are so many unknowns in such a prediction that the top-flight political angels have feared to tread positively — including Roosevelt and Churchill.

But there are certain well known factors in calculating the duration of the struggle—factors which can give us at least an impression that the war against Germany probably will keep on at least several months into the winter.

Those factors are first, the winter weather of the Rhineland, which makes our kind of warfare painfully slow.

Second, the iron grip which the Hitler boys have been able to impose on incipient revolutionaries in Germany.

Third, the Nazi promise of new, secret weapons of war—a promise which has given the German soldiers "fight" against our superior arms, men, and materiel.

It all adds up to a rather gloomy total, spelling out the prediction that the war against Germany may still be raging when spring comes.

The only comfort is that such a prediction, like an umbrella carried as insurance to keep the rain away, may stave off the bad news. There may still be a sudden, overnight development in German internal politics which may lead to unexpected peace.

But the odds, be it said, are against such a development; and there are certain unpleasant truths about the winter fighting which are unavoidable, whatever the possibilities of sudden revolution in Germany.

First and foremost of these facts is that the winter weather is definitely against us, definitely in favor of the Nazis.

Our greatest military advantages — our airpower, tanks and artillery — are to a large degree diminished by winter.

The crux, the hinge of our great armed strength is of course our supremacy in the air—and that is almost negated by winter.

When skies are overcast and rainy, our powerful fighter-bomber arm, which strikes at every enemy movement behind his lines, is inoperative.

The swift Thunderbolts and Lightnings which have inflicted such heavy damage on enemy tank columns and bivouac areas, can't discover their targets, and worse, they have difficulty finding their way back to their airports.

Besides grounding our very important fighter-bombers, the already commencing winter weather has had another bad effect on the application of our air strength.

Because of heavy rains and overcast skies, even the slow, low-flying tin-lizzies of the air, the artillery spotting planes, have been unable to fly. That means that our advantage in artillery is being minimized, for over the flat terrain of the Rhineland and Holland, where there are few natural observation posts, it is essential to have someone in the sky to give corrections to our batteries, to place their fire directly on the target.

AWOL by Chute, Stolen Airplane

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 13 (AP)—Search for a former Army flier who escaped from the Craig Field, Ala., guardhouse shortly before a trainer plane left the field without lights or radio clearance, continued today after a plane of the same type crash-landed near New Orleans.

Col. J. K. McDuffie, commanding officer of Craig Field, said "it is assumed" the former AAF lieutenant, Robert G. Kaslow, 20, of Johnson City, N. Y., used the Army plane to escape.

R. J. Abbaticchio, agent in charge of the FBI office here, disclosed that an AT-6 advance trainer plane, of the type missing from Craig Field, had been found wrecked at Higgins Field.

Lt. Arthur F. Carroll, maintenance officer from the Gulfport, Miss., air field, said the plane's occupant apparently parachuted to safety.

Col. McDuffie said Kaslow escaped Friday night from the guardhouse where he was awaiting disposition under a 30-year prison sentence by a general courtmartial on charges including forgery, assault with intent to murder, larceny and desertion.

Abbaticchio said a complaint charging Kaslow with theft of government property, namely an airplane, had been filed in U. S. District Court at Mobile.

Bus Tieup in 3d Day, Two States Crippled

Bus travel in Massachusetts and Rhode Island today was crippled for the third consecutive day as 125 drivers for the New England Transportation Co., remained on the "sick" list and failed to report for work.

Alternate bus lines and trains serving most of the sections affected were crowded with passengers who customarily used the New England line.

Eighty buses were idle while company officials proposed that "disputed points" be submitted to the War Labor Board or arbitration. The company said they had received no comment on the offer from officials of the Amalgamted Ass'n of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, AFL.

The company said drivers listed four points in connection with contract negotiations: (1) drivers' refusal to change tires; (2) determination of number of trips to be made daily on the Providence-Bristol, R. I., run; (3) days off for spare board operators, and (4) improvements to be made in the operators' room in Providence.

Lines affected by the tie-up today were Boston-Providence, Providence-Worcester - Fitchburg, Providence-Fall River-New Bedford, Fall River-Warren, Providence - Bristol, Providence - Buzzards Bay, Hyannis-Chatham and Hyannis-Provincetown.

Company officials said they were notified that the union had filed a report with the Department of Labor in Washington Nov. 4 seeking a strike vote which calls for a 30-day cooling-off period, under the War Labor Disputes act.

He was scheduled to go to court and explain hwo he happened to have 50 decks of dope in his room, as well as 24 decks of dope in his pockets.

HURT IN STATION FALL

Leo V. Martin, 40, of Melrose st., Lawrence, was under treatment at City Hospital today for head injuries suffered when he fell into the train pit at the Essex station of the Washington st. tunnel.

WLB Head Silent On Resignation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (INS)—War Labor Board Chairman William H. Davis declined early today to confirm or deny a report he has submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt.

It was pointed out that many presidential appointees, including cabinet officers, customarily submit their resignations after a national election.

There was some speculation that, if Davis has offered his resignation, the action follows this established precedent.

Wounded Buralar, Pal Admit Guilt

Herbert J. Bolduc, 20, Monument sq., Charlestown, who narrowly escaped death when hit by a Cambridge policeman's bullet Saturday, pleaded builty in East Cambridge court today to breaking and entering.

His accomplice, George P. Scales, 24, Main st., Charlestown, pleaded guilty to the same charge. Each was held in $3000 for the grand jury. Bolduc suffered a scalp wound when Patrolman Roy Hughes fired through a door of a Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, drug store at two burglars.

Boy Tells Own Story Of 8 Days in Toolbox

LONG BEACH, Cal., Nov. 13 (AP)—A nine-year-old boy was recuperating in Seaside Hospital today after his release yesterday from a 12-inch-wide tool compartment of an abandoned auto trailer in which he had been imprisoned eight days.

The boy, David Bourbonnais, was suffering from exposure, hunger and shock and his weight had been reduced from 70 pounds to approximately 35 pounds. However, a Navy physician reported that considering the experience his condition was surprisingly good.

A. B. Pearson, a juvenile officer, said David related that a big boy, whose name the victim did not know, slammed the door of the tool compartment shut on him. David said he had climbed inside to retrieve a jacket which he said the other boy had thrown in after an argument.

"I slept most of the time," David, who had been the object of a city-wide search, told officers. "And when I'd hear someone walking by I'd pound and kick on the door, hoping they'd hear me. None of them did until that man found me."

The youngster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bourbonnais, reported their son missing seven days ago. They live in a Navy housing project which is only a few blocks from the U. S. Navy drydock trailer camp where the boy was found. The elder Bourbonnais is a coxswain third class in the Navy and a veteran of Tarawa.

An unidentified man, the police said, heard weak outcries from the boy and released him.

Strive to Rescue Trio From Mine

SCRANTON, Nov. 13 (INS)—Rescue workers strove to pump out a pit 600 feet deep at the Franklin colliery, Wilkes-Barre, where three miners were trapped behind a torrent of water released by a mine explosion.

Malden Cellar Fire Drives 9 From Homes

Nine persons were driven to the street today when smoke from a cellar rubbish fire filled a 2½-story dwelling in Main st., Malden.

Forced from their homes were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Squires and their children, Barbara 12, and James, 9, and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Dauach and their children, Orland, 16, and Ian, 8, and their nephew, Lucien Brown, 12.

Holyoke Man Dies With 14 in Air Crash

CLOVIS, N. M., Nov. 13 (INS)—Army officers from the Clovis Army air field today investigated the crash of a four-engined bomber 25 miles southeast of the field, in which six officers and nine enlisted men were killed.

The dead included T-Sgt. Walter Lewkowicz, Holyoke, Mass.

Woman Suicide's Relatives Sought

Malden police today sought relatives of Mrs. Grace Ahlin, 55-year-old widow, of Prospect st., Malden, whose death in her gas-filled kitchen was pronounced a suicide by Medical Examiner Andrew D. Guthrie.

She was found lying over the gas stove by police, called by neighbors. Firemen worked over the woman with an inhalator for almost two hours in a vain effort to revive her. Mrs. Ahlin was employed as a pastry cook in a Malden sq. restaurant.

Revere Mayor Acts To Light Death Span

The auto crash that killed Mrs. Josephine C. Graniams, 20, and critically injured two service men at the old Narrow Gauge bridge at Point of Pines, Revere, brought a demand from Mayor Raymond E. Carey of Revere today that the State either raze the span or provide sufficient illumination there.

"There's no need for the bridge since the Narrow Guage stopped operating," he said. "It could be torn down and the highway straightened. But the least that could be done would be to provide flashing signals and illumination on both the bridge and North Shore rd."

Mayor Carey said he had recommended similar action last spring after four persons were killed but the state had done nothing.

The victim, formerly of Lynn, was a student at Northeastern Business College, Portland, Me., and had been spending a weekend at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jeanette Childs of Lynn.

Injured in the crash, when the machine hurtled into a concrete upright, were Marine Pvt. Frank Rourke of Clough st., and Sgt. Sesclo Pantezelos, USA, of Hamilton st., both of Lynn. Rourke was first taken to Lynn General Hospital and later to the Chelsea Naval Hospital, while Pantezelos was taken to the Army Hospital, Waltham.

Witnesses said a Navy man was seen leaving the scene of the crash, but a check at hospitals disclosed no additional victim.

2200 Kelly Gain In Lynn Recheck

As the result of a recheck of election results in Lynn, the slim lead of 9320 votes which Clarence A. Barnes, Republican, held over former Lt. Gov. Francis E. Kelly in the race for attorney general, was reduced today to only 7120 votes in the unofficial count.

Kelly already has petitioned for a recount and his supporters hailed announcement of the Lynn correction as supporting their contention that serious mistakes were made in tallying the vote.

The error, discovered by special accountants employed by the Lynn Election Com. to re-check the unofficial election night vote tally, reduced Barnes' Lynn vote by 1800 and increased the Kelly vote by 400, giving the latter a net gain of 2200.

Harold F. Perry, election commission chairman, blamed the error on "hurried addition" by vote tabulators on election night. The special accountants' checkup, he explained, is customarily made in Lynn prior to sending the ballots to the Secretary of State's office, whence they go to the Governor's Council for official verification of the vote on Nov. 29.

Saltonstall Waits For Certification

Gov. Saltonstall will not resign his office and take his seat in the U. S. Senate until after the Executive Council certifies the election of last Tuesday. Certification is expected to occur on Dec. 1.

It is generally understood the governor then will take over his duties in Washington, giving Lt. Gov. Cahill the honor of sitting in the governor's chair during December.

Gov.-elect Tobin takes office Jan. 3.

Cig Shortage Laid To Smokers' Panic

By RAY RICHARDS
Boston Evening American, Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—American smokers are stimulating their own cigarette shortages and there would be no serious inconvenience if they would restrain their sporadic panics, the OPA said today.

Officials of the agency insisted the present persistent public runs on tobacco counters form virtually the sole reason for the temporary famines developing in the more popular brands.

The armed services are not overindulging in cigarettes, nor are they supplied with surpluses. The maximum supply is about one carton per week per man.

Production of cigarettes is higher than last year and is not badly affected by manpower shortage. Increased output approximately balances increased smoking due to the strain of war.

A spotty black market exists, but so far it can be called seriously threatening only at Detroit, Des Moines and Dallas, where crackdowns are impending.

Cigarette stocks are quickly depleted as panicky smokers visit store after store to purchase all they are allowed at each place, OPA officials said.

The runs almost invariably originate, it was explained, when the monthly order from the Army and Navy, which possess priority, creates a transient shortage in certain brands of cigarettes in the retail stores.

The placing of limits by retailers on individual sales does little more than inconvenience the smoker as he makes a tour of numerous stores.

Cigarettes being unrationed, some dealers contribute to hoarding by making unlimited sales to individuals as long as supply lasts.

The OPA said brief shortages are being encountered in the less expensive cigars, but pipe smokers are copiously supplied with tobacco.

Cigarettes and cigars are among parcel post items on sale in public auction at the South Postal Annex Thursday at 9:30 a. m.

Green Light for Vet On Acquiring Home

Special to the Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—Discharged war veterans may go ahead anytime to build or buy a house under the American Legion-sponsored GI Bill of Rights, the National Housing Administration announced.

"A veteran is about the only person who can get priorities on building materials," said Howard Vickery of the information section. "Also, he can prepare now to build or buy a house although the Veterans' Administration has not fully determined what federal agency or agencies will process applications for home loan guaranty."

A home loan guaranty is the Veterans' Administration endorsement on half of any sum up to and including $4000 which a veteran borrows from any individual, private building and loan association, bank or other lending institution.

"There is no reason why a veteran wishing to build or buy a house cannot get all the groundwork laid at once so that when the Veterans' Administration has all of its plan completed, he can go ahead at once," Vickery said.

At the same time, the Veterans' Administration explained that there is nothing in the GI bill to prevent a veteran from borrowing more than $4000 to acquire a house. However, arrangements for the additional money are entirely between the veteran and the bank.

FD Expected To Keep Cabinet

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) President Roosevelt apparently plans to carry the old cabinet into his fourth term but is expected to name Fred M. Vinson as the new "assistant president."

Vinson, present director of the Office of Economic Stabilization, would succeed James F. Byrnes, now running the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion on an interim basis. Byrnes has indicated he would prefer not to have the post for the regular two-year term Congress provided.

As for the Cabinet, possible replacement of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins remained a lively topic despite the absence of any indication from the White House it is even being considered.

90 Minutes Allowed For History Trials

The thousands of Boston public and parochial high school pupils competing for the William Randolph Hearst American History awards will be allowed 90 minutes to answer the 20 questions on outstanding events in our country's glorious past.

This time limit was announced today by the committee in charge of the contest, designed to spur young Americans to a greater appreciation of their native land's inspiring history.

The 250-word essay, which is part of the contest, must be completed within 45 minutes, the committee decided. The individual school tests will be held Nov. 30.

The three pupils selected as winners in each school will become eligible to compete in the local eliminations to be held in Faneuil Hall on Monday, Dec. 11, the same date pupils in 12 other key cities of the nation will be competing in their local contests.

Winners in the Boston elimination will receive the following war bond prizes from the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, local sponsors: first, $200; second, $100; third, $75; fourth through sixth, $50; seventh through 25th, $25.

An additional award of a $100 set of history books for the school library will be presented to the school which produces the first award winner.

National awards, also in war bonds, are: first, $2000; second, $1000; third, $500; fourth, $250; fifth, through ninth, $100; 10th through 41st, $50.

Aim for Record In Salvage Drive

With officials urging householders to make a determined effort to eclipse last month's record showing, Boston's November salvage drive got under way in Wards 1 through 5 today, with city trucks making pickups of tin and wastepaper.

Meanwhile, in preparation for tomorrow's collections in Wards 6 through 10, hundreds of schoolboys, enrolled as paper troopers by the War Production Board, made final calls at homes in South Boston, parts of the South End and in the Mission Hill district of Roxbury, reminding housewives to prepare their scrap for the drive.

"The Salvage Committee has pledged $10,000 to the United War Fund campaign," George G. Hyland, campaign director, announced.

"It may seem a far cry from a bundle of scrap paper in Charlestown to a Long Tom battery firing its shells into the fortifications of our Nazi enemies, but if we didn't get that bundle of paper from Charlestown and the hundreds of other bundles salvaged by patriotic citizens—our boys manning the big guns would be short of ammunition.

"I feel confident not one of us wishes to feel that he or she shirked in the battle of the home front."

Concealed Seams Are Feature Of Mad Carpentier's Fashions

By LORELLE HEARST
Special Correspondent, Boston Evening American

PARIS, Nov. 13—Mad Carpentier is comparatively a new name in the fashion world.

This house consists of two women.

Mad is the designer and Carpentier is the front [illegible].

I met Madame Carpentier today. She is charming with a lovely soft voice and speaks English in musical tones.

This all shows in her collection. It is as well-bred as she is.

This house has shown only once to American buyers, as it only came into being in 1940.

The trend runs toward drapery of shoulders and tight molded drapery around the hips.

Skirts are straight and shoulder seams are either completely missing or invisible. Some shoulders round off like a football player's sweater, perhaps not as exaggerated but with the same rounded look.

Madame told me they believed in having seams in clothes because they were needed to make them fit well. However, they should not be seen.

Tea gowns seem to rule the roost here. There were several lovely ones in this house.

A pale pink brocade which looked like a luscious strawberry ice cream soda had two beautiful pink pearl buttons at the small waistline, a long flaring skirt, no shoulder seams, with the sleeves a little full to the elbow and at night extending from the elbow to the wrist.

There was another in green taffeta with a black velvet stripe.

This tea gown had a very wide fold of the same material falling from the shoulders down to the wrist. It starts about a foot in width and narrows down, as it reaches the wrist, to an inch.

Two exquisite black jet buttons are at the doll waist. Again the skirt is very full to the floor.

Electric blue plays a big part in the color of these French collections. Once it was used in a wonderful wool dinner dress. The shoulders were broad, there was no seam and it had long tight sleeves.

The hip drapery is very narrow pinched-in at the middle front waistline and is held together with a coral and turquoise button. Then it goes around the back where it is molded into soft folds. The skirt is long and straight.

A very good wool suit can be worn in the city or country with ease. It was pearl grey with a small green line running through it. In the front the fingertip jacket had wide box pleats over each side from shoulder to the bottom of the jacket. The back had four of these wide loose box pleats.

From the neckline to the bottom of the jacket it is belted in very tight with a green leather belt in front. The belt is broken into two very narrow green leather pieces with two tiny silver buckles. The skirt is plain in front and there are inverted pleats sewed down to the knee in the back which give the fullness one needs for walking comfortably.

The afternoon dress is new and unusual.

It is of black crepe with full drape only on one side. The blouse is embroidered in small motifs with every pastel color

Monetary Plan Gains Favor

RYE, N. Y., Nov. 13 (AP)—An indication that the International Business Conference may give some measure of approval to the monetary proposals adopted at Bretton Woods last July was given today as delegates resumed their discussions of postwar trade problems after a Sunday recess.

It was learned from an authoritative source that the American delegation will put before the conference a recommendation that the Bretton Woods agreements for an international monetary fund and a world reconstruction bank be given careful consideration in any discussion of postwar currency problems.

In recent discussions of the Bretton Woods proposals, American bankers have been generally opposed to the money stabilization fund and cool like a rum to the world bank for reconstruction.

Push Congress Rap At British on Jews

By RAYMOND WILCOVE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (INS)—Swift Congressional action on a resolution censuring the British government for its policy toward Palestine was predicted on Capitol Hill today.

Rep. Bloom (D.) of New York, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, preparing to convene his group Wednesday, predicted favorable action would be taken on a resolution placing the House on record as favoring abrogation of the British White Paper restricting Jewish immigration to Palestine.

House approval of the resolution would tend to bring the entire question of British-American relations on Palestine to a head and, if speedy enough, permit President Roosevelt to discuss the matter with Prime Minister Churchill at their next conference.

The President is already on record as favoring the opening of Palestine to unrestricted Jewish immigration, as enunciated in the Democratic party platform last July.

In a letter to Sen. Wagner (D.) of New York, co-sponsor with Sen. Taft (R.) of Ohio, of a similar Palestine resolution in the Senate, made public Oct. 15, he stated that "efforts will be made to find appropriate ways and means of effectuating this policy as soon as practicable." He added that "if re-elected, I shall help to bring about its realization."

The dispute over the present British policy toward Palestine, enunciated in May, 1939, was accentuated last week when two Palestine Jews assassinated Lord Moyne, British resident minister in the Middle East, in Cairo.

The British policy restricting Jewish immigration to Palestine was condemned in May, 1939 in a statement issued by a majority of the members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, but Congress has never taken formal action.

Sees Home Doctors' Life Span Cut in War

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 13—Dr. Edgar G. Ballenger of Atlanta, Ga., president-elect of the Southern Medical Ass'n, expressed his belief today that an average of two to three years has been cut from the normal life span of a high percentage of home front doctors due to wartime overwork.

At the same time, however, he said he believed the heavy demands made on the depleted ranks of doctors left at home in the early days of war were rapidly being compensated for by a new attitude of co-operation on the part of patients which is leading many to come to the doctors' offices for minor complaints, adding:

"The patients are helping us to carry on by showing a willingness to wait without protest when there are long lines before them in waiting rooms.

"From looking over statistics on mortality of doctors as published in the Journal of the American Medical Ass'n, I have seen that the mortality rate of doctors left at home has far exceeded that of those in the armed forces. It is my further impression that the death rate of those at home is exceedingly above the normal point, particularly in older age groups," he said.

He explained that about 15 per cent of the nation's population was in armed forces and that between 40 and 45 per cent of the country's active doctors was caring for them.

But Dr. Ballenger emphasized that this seeming increase in the mortality of home front doctors should by no means deter patients from calling on the doctor.

"We have been lucky," he said, "in that no epidemics of the type that struck the country in 1918 have occurred. As a safeguard people should do everything in their power to keep well—such as watching their diets, avoiding undue exposure and living lives of moderation."

Nazis Hint New War In Birth Increase

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (INS)—There were 50,000 more births in Germany during the first six months of 1944 than in the first half of 1943, Hans Hertels, a Nazi commentator, said in a Berlin broadcast, giving the 1944 total as 710,000.

"The fight with arms merely yields momentary decisions," Hertels said, "while the fight with birthrates decides the fate of nations for a long time ahead."

Sister Kenny At Institute

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—Sister Elizabeth Kenny, developer of the famous method of treating infantile paralysis, has returned to the Elizabeth Kenny Institute in Minneapolis, where Mayor Marvin L. Kline has made a public appeal for a fund of $1,702,000 to train technicians in the Kenny Method.

Sister Kenny declared on leaving here that there was a pressing need for establishment in New York city of a medical institute staffed by doctors, nurses and technicians trained in her method. Asked whether she has started a campaign to this end, she replied, "I don't start any campaigns."

Probe Fatal Lynn Hotel Fire

Discovery that a Sunday morning fire in Lynn's New Oxford Hotel, which resulted in the death of one man, had started in a vacant room, caused officials to call the office of State Fire Marshall E. C. Whittemore into the case today.

The blaze swept through the two upper floors of the hotel after it apparently had gained considerable headway before being discovered.

Emerson Morrison, 73, died at Lynn Hospital of a fractured skull, suffered when he leaped 35 feet to the ground from the window of his third-floor room to escape the flames. Fifteen others fled.

End the War VICTORIOUSLY
Make the Peace PERMANENTLY
Bring Our Boys Home PROMPTLY

GIVE!

HUNDREDS of thousands of our men in Europe and in the Asiatic-Pacific areas are giving their life-blood for you every minute of the day.

Cannot YOU and YOU and YOU—that is, WE, the stay-at-homes—do as much?

If you have a healthy blood stream, some of your sons, brothers, fathers and sweethearts need that precious fluid in you to save their lives.

Ninety-seven per cent of blood transfusions on the battlefields and in the field hospitals are successful, the Surgeon General of the United States says.

Are we who depend on our fighters for our very life's blood, for our liberties, for our creature comforts and for our physical safety making the contributions we should to the Red Cross blood banks?

The answer is unfortunately, if not disgracefully, NO!

THE FOLLOWING question, which should bring the blush of shame to all healthy American faces, preceded a recent article in the Hearst newspapers telling of "civilians' blood deficits":

"Do service men not only have to win the war but also provide the blood to save the lives of their buddies?"

Then follow these depressing news paragraphs:

"Last week service men at Floyd Bennett Field, plane crews, mechanics and employes, were the ONLY REASON the Brooklyn Red Cross blood bank obtained even 340 to 350 pints a day. Its quota is 500 pints a day. Defaulting blood donors made it necessary to call on the service men.

"Yesterday there were many vacant places on the benches where donors should have been waiting their turns to give blood for the wounded.

"Ninety-seven out of every 100 wounded live after being given transfusions.

"Blood donors who do not keep their appointments may be responsible for more graves next month."

"May be responsible for more graves next month"—that is not a pleasant phrase, is it?

Now, this deficit of contributions to blood to go overseas is not caused by heartlessness, by fear or by a cooling of our patriotic fervor.

It is caused by thoughtlessness, listlessness, laziness in the presence of a solemn duty, for no greater or more imperative duty confronts the American people than to save the lives of our loved ones.

WE SHOULD hang our heads, too, when we read that Englishmen and English women, Frenchmen and French women are giving of their blood to restore American service men to health and home.

Telephone today to your nearest Red Cross Center and offer to donate your blood to those who are pouring out their blood for you.

Deposit in the bank of humanity—the BLOOD BANK.

Don't be a blood slacker!

Don't default on the men who are standing up for you to their last breath!

Let YOUR blood bring your loved ones home!

The Boston and New England response to the appeals for blood has been good but not good enough.

We are too apt to grow careless, to delay our contributions, to become complacent when victories are announced on the fighting fronts.

We must make the donation of blood a constant, never-ending practice.

Only when peace is fully achieved in Europe and the Orient can we afford to say our duty has been done.

The prize of happiness must

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—You say Mike Hall was the best horse named after a man. How about Billy Kelly, named after the Buffalo sports writer? A—Billy Kelly was a great sprinter but not so good an all-around horse as Mike Hall. Incidentally, the versatile Exterminator once beat Billy Kelly in a six-furlong dash. This surprised everybody, as "Old Bones" was considered a distance horse . . . Q—What kind of a break do your star-gazing friends give Scorpio women? A—The star-gazers claim Scorpio women are usually "it" and "oomph" girls, who have to battle to keep admiring men away. They are good home managers but only if provided with up-to-date equipment. When a Scorpio woman hasn't a washing machine she sulks. If she has a clothes washing machine she kicks because she hasn't a dishwashing machine.

HOW THEY MET: A young woman of Seattle says she met the man who became her husband in an automobile accident. But she doesn't describe the accident. Did she run into him or vice versa? I am inclined to think he ran into her because if it had been the other way around he would have said: "Now, isn't that just like a woman? That would have so infuriated her she would have never married him.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—My old Mujik friend, Dave Sentnerovitch, came dashing up in a snow-covered droshky the other night and let loose a rousing "huzzah!"

"Why are you not at the Soviet Embassy, Comrade?" he demanded. "I understand it is the biggest party hereabouts since the war!"

I asked Comrade Sentnerovitch why he wasn't there himself.

"Because I couldn't get in," he said. "I tried to slip a fellow a couple of kopeks to let me crash but he turned out to be an ambassador or something. He wanted me to go up to five kopeks and a ruble but I was a little short in the reach and couldn't pay.

"But," continued Comrade Sentnerovitch, "it is certainly a gala affair. The beauty and chivalry of Minsk is there, also of Bronx, Westchester and Chevy Chase.

"The revelry can be heard for blocks. Maybe they are having a bout between Abdul Abulbul Amir and Ivan Skvinsky Skvar."

I HAILED a passing Volga boatsman and rowed up to the place, chanting "Oy—Yoy—Yiff-Niff!" as I pulled. But I was barred at the door and asked to show credentials.

"Don't you recognize me?" I asked, resorting to cunning. "My place is here. I am Ida the Wayward Sturgeon."

"No sturgeon this year!" he grunted. "No sturgeon—no caviar!"

★ ★ ★

WELL, THIS conversation threatened to become boring, so I gave up. Anyway, I have an idea he saw through my pretense. These Russians can be very suspicious.

So I had to read about it in the papers. It was fascinating reading because all the society editresses in town practically wallowed in adjectival phrases up to their low-backed gowns describing it.

One of them, at least, must have been out of breath after writing her opening paragraph. This was it—one sentence:

"Twenty-two hundred guests presented their gold-crested engraved invitations at the door of the Soviet Embassy yesterday and slowly filed up the maroon-carpeted marble stairway past the fine painting of the great October revolution, the anniversary of which was celebrated yesterday, to be received by the Ambassador of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and Mme. Gromyko."

Whew!

OTHER DESCRIPTIVE bits:

"At either end of the table silver candelabra filled with slender white tapers gave a soft light which blended with the more brilliant one from magnificent crystal chandeliers overhead."

"Soviet diplomats, including Ambassador Gromyko, displayed for the first time in Washington, the elaborate uniforms recently decreed by the Kremlin for the Russian foreign service. Their double-breasted black suits were heavily decked with gold leaves and each displayed a 10-inch ivory encased dagger."

"The dining room table was decorated with a six-foot cake fashioned in the shape of a six-pointed star. There were whole roasted piglets—lots of 'em. There were whole roasted turkeys—dozens of 'em. There were baked hams—dozens of 'em. The Russians are certainly not wanting red points."

I HAVE no idea what the daggers were for. Maybe in case a Republican tried to crash. Anyway, I understand there was no bloodshed.

The only thing that made me sad was the news that there was no caviar. Imagine throwing a party and having to fall back on a lot of measly piglets, turkeys and baked hams! I don't think the sheer horror of war was ever brought home to me so forcibly.

One society writer—obviously a Spartan type—tried to make the best of it. She wrote:

"But there was everything else you could imagine. Vodka, Scotch whisky and champagne flowed literally from eight long bars."

Beat me, Stalin, at eight of the bars!

I GATHER from all the public prints that it was a very high-class affair. So far as I could learn, there wasn't a Union Square soap box in the joint.

Hollywood Today

By Dorothy Manners

Substituting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 13—From New York—Jack Warner reveals Barbara Stanwyck and Paul Henreid for "The Two Mrs. Carrolls," an assignment that should make Mr. Henreid happy, indeed.

For one thing, it gives him a chance to be villainous to his heart's content, and he is fed up with his long career as a hand-kissing, cigarette-lighting romantic who always treats his women with chivalry. Here things will be different. He gets the chance slowly to poison Barbara and nearly drive her out of her mind, behaving very much like Charles Boyer in "Gaslight."

Martin Vale's "Two Mrs. Carrolls" created a stir on Broadway last year, chiefly because of the sensitive, haunting performance of Elizabeth Bergner as the tortured wife. Stanwyck, of course, gets this role in the movie. She also gets the same director who guided her in "Christmas in Connecticut," Peter Godfrey, at the megaphone. Robert Buckner produces.

KEEP YOUR EYE on Lizbeth Scott. The only reason Tallulah Bankhead's former understudy isn't being announced as the femme star of Hal Wallis' "Don't Ever Grieve Me" is because there are three big male roles to be filled. And the gentlemen might get their noses out of joint. So we will be polite and say Lizbeth is certainly coming into movies the top way for a girl who has never made a picture. Hal originally planned to build her up slowly in supporting roles, so her tests must be on the terrific side. Nice climbing for a girl who was the understudy on "Skin of Our Teeth" just a couple years ago.

DARRYL ZANUCK does not want to follow Jimmy Dunn's swell performance in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" with a similar role. Reason is he doesn't want to detract from what may well be an Academy Award portrayal by typing Jimmy as a lovable down-and-outer. So 20th goes far afield for Dunn's next ("Caribbean Island") to investigate the disappearance of two scientists. Sheila Ryan, Faye Marlowe and Robert Webb are in the cast, with Bryan Foy set to produce. P. S.—Title definitely will not be changed to "A Bush Grows in the Caribbean" even if Dunn wins the Oscar.

WITH EVERYBODY having fun making up lists of Hollywood's top beauties, how about Ilona Massey? The blonde songbird had every eye in the room on her at La Rue, the other night, wearing a black hat studded with sequins, and a wicked little beauty spot near her mouth. But what I started to tell you about Ilona, before the beauty spot distracted me, was she's right back where she started from—at M-G-M—and her first picture on the new deal is "Holiday in Mexico." It's a Latin-American musical with lovely gowns for Ilona, and maybe a beauty spot or two.

LAST WEEK'S HINT M-G-M might abandon "Dr. Gillespie" as a series because of Lionel Barrymore's health is true. The strain of three or four pictures a year is too much for Barrymore. But here is the good news angle: The "Dr. Gillespie" character, so popular with the fans, will be run through other movies. The first will be a special fling called "Three Wise Fools," and it stars Barrymore (as the good doctor), Lewis Stone (as "Judge Hardy") and Frank Morgan (as a small town banker).

ALEXANDER KIRKLAND went to a furniture dealer to talk turkey about disposing of some household furnishings owned by him and Gypsy Rose Lee before their marriage went on the rocks. The dealer was strictly business and very much on the commercial side until he discovered that a big bed among the effects had belonged to Gypsy—and then the soul of the artist came out. "I gotta have this," he said, "but I gotta have your permission for a certain way of advertising it." Kirkland said, "What's that?" The man was hopping up and down with joy. "If we can advertise it 'Gypsy Rose Lee Slept Here,' Brother, we're struck our fortune!"

PERHAPS NOTHING will really reconcile Stuart Erwin to losing the Will Rogers role. He had his heart set on it and there were plenty of fans plugging for him. But that's water under the bridge now, with John Wayne set for the part. However, PRC has just bought a national magazine series by Whittaker Chambers, called "Once Too Often," with a whale of a role for Stu, and there's every chance he will get it.

★ ★ ★

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS Lauren Bacall, who is keeping her chin up about it all, starting something new by wearing artificial orchids on a sports coat. That girl has plenty of what it takes to be a star, and a heartache or two is good for the career—or so it says here: It may upset Van Johnson, in Mexico City, to learn his girl friend, Kay Williams, has been dating Baron Poland; Franchot Tone gets in town for a few days before heading back to New York and his new play. Speaking of Broadway shows, did you know Gregory Peck was a backer's chunk of "A Bell for Adano"?; James Roosevelt's sister-in-law, Phyllis Schneider, just out of the hospital, following a sinus operation; Millicent Jaeckel had a letter from her son, Richard, saying he has been at sea so long he's waterlogged; Glenn Billingsley's cronies turned out en masse for the opening of his redecorated Cafe Tropics. Bing was there and got a big hand. Susan Hayward and Jess Barker looking as dewey-eyed as though there had never been a rough spell. The James Craigs, Michele Morgan, Bill Marshall attended.

Broadway

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—In real life, I never met any woman as mean as some of the girls Bette Davis has played in pictures, and I am curious to know if such unmitigated villainesses exist. In my days as a city side reporter it was my pleasure to encounter no end of murderesses and alleged murderesses, but they were usually mild creatures, soft-spoken and given to easy tears, which I suppose is the reason why about 90 per cent of them were acquitted with applause.

Bette Davis

Vera Stretz, a lady accused of shooting her lover in the back, was an attractive natural blonde who affected (at least until the day after her acquittal) simple gowns with innocent-looking lingerie touches, a minimum of makeup, and a crushed expression.

It was brought out at the trial that she liked to read (and quote, in transoceanic letters) the unexpurgated version of "Lady Chatterly's Lover," but watching her as she sat with hands folded in the gloomy light of the old Criminal Courts Building, it was difficult to imagine her curling up with anything snappier than "Gentle Julia."

Naturally, the jury decided that the shooting she did had been in self-defense, and she was freed almost with an apology for having brought the matter up at all.

* * *

SEARCHING my memory for the name of a woman who was not only accused of villainy but convicted, I recall Mary Frances Creighton, a swarthy, black-haired individual with what my grandmother used to call a "mean eye," who, along with her lover (and believe me Mary Frances proved to me for once and for all that lovers are easy to come by), was accused of murdering his wife.

Mary Frances had none of Bette's chic, but she had all the fourness, all the defiance, all the snarling coldness of the most unlikable Davis roles.

She had no smiles, no pretty ways, no sex appeal that anyone in the courtroom could see.

She had no tears, and this, as any trained homicide reporter will tell you, is tantamount to an admission of guilt, for juries like tears almost as much as they like pictures of the body taken at the scene of the crime.

* * *

MARY FRANCES was convicted. On a subsequent balmy July night she was burned to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing, and I remember it well, for as she died I sat out on the wide gray stone steps of the prison and waited for the end so I could go back to the little Western Union office in Ossining and write a story about her husband and children who had come to see her on her last night.

But even when Mary Frances had heard the "guilty" verdict and was walking out of the courtroom to her doom, she never seemed as unqualifiedly nasty as Betty Davis appears when she is merely brushing off an unwanted husband, without benefit of firearms.

So I would like to know who is the pattern for those devastating Davis dames I see when I go to the movies, and whoever it is I would like to meet her. Not on a dark night or in a blind alley, of course, but I would like to meet her.

C'MON, GUS, OPEN UP!—YOU ONLY GOT A HALF-HOUR TO MAKE TH' ARENA FOR YOUR MATCH WITH TH' EARL!—AN' I PUT UP $200 FOR YOUR APPEARANCE, AND IF YOU TAKE A RUN-OUT, HE'LL GET THAT BROCCOLI!

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 13—Vincent Price is the latest candidate for the title role in the picture "O. Henry" . . . The Michael Kanins expect a baby . . . Ladislaus Bus-Fekete and Harold Rome want John Brahm to stage their new play, "Think It Over" when he completes "Hangover Square." Clifton Webb and Leonore Coffee are the leads in it . . . Warners is getting "Sham" ready, a yarn about a reckless heiress who inherits a gambling club, as a starrer for Ann Sheridan . . . Judy Garland and Robert Walker were talking about their school days. Walker asked Judy if she liked school. "No," she honestly admitted, "I just wasn't the readin', writin' and 'rithmetic type." "But when you graduated," he insisted, "weren't you kind of sorry your schooldays were over? "Frankly Bob," answered Judy, "I never felt like I'd been graduated—I thought I'd been sprung!" . . . Tom Jenk went to see a movie which prides itself upon the fact that it is a story about the war and the war effort. When asked what he thought of the picture, Jenk replied: "Well, it has at least one thing in common with the war. It's too long." But don't get me wrong. I love Hollywood.

THERE IS always something going on on the set of a Tarzan picture, and so I strolled over to the studio where Johnny Weissmuller is making "Tarzan and the Amazons." Tarzan hasn't changed. He is still Weissmuller displaying his manly charms. The girl friend, however, is different. Tarzan is now interested in Brenda Joyce. That Tarzan, I am beginning to believe, is a bit of a wolf.

When I arrived on the set, Director Kurt Neumann was busy arranging the jungle so it would look proper for the camera. I asked where Weissmuller was, and they told me that Johnny was back of the bushes and the trees playing gin rummy.

I walked through the jungle and there I saw Johnny, practically in the raw, sitting on a bench playing gin rummy with a chimpanzee. "How's everything, Johnny?"

"Terrible," said Johnny. "I'm out about $200. I've just been blitzed. This chimpanzee is making a monkey out of me."

WE'VE HAD humor (oh, we did, did we!), and therefore the next set you and I visit must present something different. The something different is Lassie at work. There is no player in town who receives the care on a set that Lassie does.

This particular day Lassie is doing a scene with Peter Lawford for "Son of Lassie." Director Sylvan Simon and everyone on the set is concerned about Lassie, who has a stand-in, a double, a trainer and a portable dressing room. The scene is played when Lassie is in the mood, and then Lawford has to be ready. The actors and directors wait for Lassie, and Lassie waits for no one.

Watching Lassie make a picture is, as I told you, something different. Why there is even a fake tree on the set for Lassie.

"I'm just looking to see whether she has as nice a figure as yours!"

Boston After Dark

MONDAY MUSINGS: The war ban on feeding the pigeons has stripped the Common of a real tradition . . . But there is nothing traditional about the World War II goings-on between "khaki-whackies" of teen-age and the opposite sex, in and out of uniform . . . If a "Save Boston Society" such as "Mr. Apley" belonged to were active today, it would perhaps budget the price of night-and-day special details of cops to patrol the fringes and the depths of the Common . . . The pick-ups are negotiated on the fringes.

* * *

MORE MUSINGS: Benjamin V. Drohan's colorful prose is now emanating from the United Kingdom, wherein B. V. D. and his wife, Marty, are heading an USO unit . . . Re the V-1 (buzz bombs) rockets, Benny writes: "For such devastating things, they are beautiful as they tear through the night . . . Yet they sound like a fleet of Indian motorcycles leaving the Whitman Cycle Club for a run to Provincetown . . . Benny says that, with his newly acquired English accent, he "will open a fish and chips joint—if the O'Hara Brothers will supply the fish . . . I can get the chips from Dan Carroll, who is always in them . . ."

* * *

DID A CENTER STREET, Newton Centre, estate really yield a crop of Nazi agents, late last winter? . . . Some prominent adolescents of the section are saying that the Newton police investigated an incident and that they (the youngsters) are reporting it now for the first time because it was an affair of state when it happened, and under censorship . . . The story goes that a group of five boys and girls went skating on a pond which is part of an estate they supposed was not in use . . . Suddenly, four men emerged from a clump of trees nearby . . . Although it was skating weather on real ice, the men were clad in shorts . . . In precise English, one of them ordered the youngsters off the grounds, and informed them that the place was private property . . . A son of a prominent contractor related the incident to his parents, and the police were called . . . The arrests (according to the story) followed.

EXCLUSIVE: Mark the name of John A. Breen as a dark-horse candidate—supported by the Tobin organization — for Mayor of Boston in the spring special election . . . If Tax Commissioner Henry Long falls victim to the change in state administration, he will land — and quickly—on the Federal payroll (if he wishes) . . . Governor Saltonstall is known, also, to have a high regard for Commissioner Long.

* * *

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Jack Tarle, ex-manager of the Latin Quarter, has bought the famous Smith's Restaurant, in New Bedford . . . Jimmy McHugh, currently the best-selling tunesmith of Tin Pan Alley by virtue of his hits in movie after movie, is the lad to start stars on the road to fortune . . . Until James wrote "South American Way," Carmen Miranda was just an exotic Brazilian with big eyes, panther-ish movements and a Portuguese accent . . . Until Jimmy wrote "It's Murder (He says)," Betty Hutton was merely America's Jitterbug No. 1, with a friend in a high place at Paramount.

* * *

NOW THAT THE ELECTION is of the past, Democrats who scoffed at the film "Wilson" being regarded as propaganda for the Democratic (party) cause, now are admitting that the Darryl Zanuck "epic" undoubtedly influenced votes in sweeping out "nationalists" and in helping elect Roosevelt again . . . The ironical part of this is that Zanuck is a tried and true Republican and the man who proposed Wendell Willkie as chairman of the Board for his company (20th Century-Fox).

POSTSCRIPT: Bookmakers are complaining that this column's reference to Hy-Charlie, which won the second race at Rockingham Park Saturday, cost them thousands of dollars . . . (Hy-Charlie paid $14.00 for $2) . . . We did not actually "tip" the horse to win, but congratulations to readers who may have read between the lines . . . However, don't expect any such service in the future . . . There are too many nice bookmakers for us to line up with their enemies.

Army Brothers Killed Same Day

TAUNTON, Nov. 13 — Two Taunton brothers, previously reported missing in action, perished while storming the Normandy beaches on D-Day, according to a War Department notification today to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Arruda of Hart st.

PFC Joseph Arruda

The brothers, PFC Manuel Arruda, 27, and PFC Joseph Arruda, 22, were in different outfits and had not seen each other since entering the service.

Another brother, Pvt. Charles Arruda, 25, was in France when his family last heard from him.

The two victims are survived also by five other brothers and six sisters, all of Taunton.

Manuel entered the service in June, 1942, and took part in the entire North African campaign and the Sicilian invasion, being awarded the Purple Heart for wounds suffered in Africa.

Joseph entered the Army in Nov. 1942, and was stationed at several camps in this country before going to England.

HIT-RUN AUTOS KILL 3

Three hit-run victims were among 12 persons killed by automobiles on state highways last week, Registrar King reported today. Auto fatalities to date this year total 365, five more than on the corresponding date a year ago, King disclosed.

Beauty

IF IT'S SPARKLE your face lacks, cream the clouds away for a complexion that is clear, glowing and radiant . . . with a dry-skin mixture containing 60 per cent real rich country cream. And, your lovely face will be as shining as the gold butterfly on Paramount Star Veronica Lake's velvet Calot.

Grand for Dry Skin

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

AS LONG AS WE have appropriated some of Granny's fashion fancies in this season's irresistible silhouette . . . we may as well borrow a bit of her cold, common sense in prettying up our faces and preserving the peaches-and-cream bloom complexion. Granny did it with cream . . . and was not she the rave of the Gay Nineties?

Today we don't have to confiscate bottle after bottle of precious cream to do the job . . . we can rely on an exclusive cosmetic containing 60 per cent of real, rich country cream . . . the only cosmetic in the world made with this wonderful skin-beautifying ingredient.

Because cream contains calcium, phosphorous, also albumin and lactose . . . and is so very rich in butterfat . . . it is an extra-special aid for extra-dry skin . . . and only a little used every night will help you fight flakiness, dry patches and those tiny premature lines so likely to form in dry skin.

When you look in the mirror . . . do you feel you could be prettier? Look at your complexion a little closer . . . is it clear, glowing and radiant . . . or are you a dry-skin victim . . . like most of us? Because of the natural elements of cream . . . this pure-cream mixture combined with other vegetable oils makes a perfect formula for softening the skin and retrieving it from the lost cause of dryness.

Milk and cream are body-builders. It is only logical to assume that a cosmetic so richly enhanced by so lavish an amount of pure, rich cream can tissue-build the face into soft firmness . . . and radiant aliveness. This is an exciting preparation for you can literally feel the cream in the mixture.

Remember how for years women who lived in hard water areas used to use milk to help keep the skin soft? These are not days for irritating harshness of water if your skin is dry. These are days to let your face gobble up pure rich cream . . . as your system does with such relish.

For the name of this exclusive 60 per cent country cream mixture for dry skin, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fashion

GLITTERING NIGHTTIME elegance is reflected in this sleek, willowy silhouette . . . a slim, dark sheath sparkling under the splendor of jet bead bowknots . . . one over-shadowy net spotlights a dramatic one-sided neckline . . . another focuses attention on the deep-curving slash, faced with bright color, that animates the skirt . . . a model fashioned of Roda crepe woven with Eastman acetate rayon. Milady in nighttime sparkle.—R. M.

Apples and Sausage Tasty

By MARTHA LEE

YOU'LL CERTAINLY WANT to serve apples and sausage at least once (or again) during the fall apple season. The nippy flavor of sausage is quite in keeping with the crispness of November winds; and sausage and apple go together like ham and eggs or biscuits and jam.

The menu today is a versatile one—besides being easy to prepare, economical, and satisfying. Of course, a simple dessert may be added if desired. Try this for luncheon when your friends come in to sew for Red Cross. Serve it for family supper on a day when you're especially busy, or let Dad or one of the youngsters get the meal.

Last, but not least, here's just the meal to serve the gang when they come home from a game.

MENU

Hot Tomato Soup
Wheat Wafers Cottage Cheese
Fried Apples and Sausage
French Toast with Maple or Brown Sugar Syrup
Cole Slaw
Milk or Coffee

Remember the aim in cooking sausage is to have them thoroughly cooked and appetizingly brown; at the same time they should not be shriveled and dry, but plump and tender. The cooking method given in the recipe below achieves this result. It is not strictly pan-broiling, but a variation of this method devised especially to give best results in cooking sausage.

As for the apples, they will be more attractive in appearance if you brown them only lightly. Be careful not to forget them after you put the cover on the pan. If you do, they're likely to become overcooked and mushy, instead of holding their shape and being just a bit crisp.

FRIED APPLES AND SAUSAGE

2 lbs. link sausage
2 tbsp. water
8 tart apples
1-3 cup sugar

Place sausage in cold skillet. Add water, cover and simmer until water evaporates. Remove cover, increase the heat and cook until sausage is browned. Remove to hot platter and pour off all but 4 tablespoons of the fat. Wash apples, cut in eighths, core and brown in the sausage fat, turning occasionally. Sprinkle with sugar, cover and cook slowly until tender. Pile apples in center of chop plate and arrange hot sausage around the apples. Makes 6 servings.

FRENCH TOAST

1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
½ tsp. salt
6 slices day-old bread

Mix slightly beaten egg, milk and salt. Cut bread in halves and dip in egg mixture. Saute in butter or drippings on heavy griddle or in frying pan, keeping pan almost dry during the cooking. Brown evenly on both sides. Or fry in deep, hot fat (380 deg. F.) until light brown. Drain on soft paper. Serve with syrup or cinnamon and sugar for dessert, or use as foundation for creamed dishes or canapes. Makes 12 servings.

CORNBREAD

½ cup sifted flour
1½ cups yellow cornmeal
4 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
3 tbsp. sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1¼ cups milk
¼ cup shortening, melted

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine eggs and milk, and add to flour mixture, stirring until well mixed; stir in shortening. Turn into greased, shallow pan, 8x12 inches, and bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 30 minutes. Sugar may be omitted, if desired. Makes six 4-inch squares.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Sunday—On Friday afternoon I had a number of appointments, ending up with a little time spent with Ambassador Winant, whom I have been trying to see ever since he came back from England.

We had a quiet dinner at home, and at 9 o'clock I went to a meeting of the UNRRA Staff Society, whose members are preparing to go overseas. They held this meeting in the Pan-American building, and after the speeches there was a short, informal reception.

Many of the workers come from the countries in the world where they are now going to try and rehabilitate the people.

* * *

I TOOK THE midnight train back to New York City in order to do some Christmas shopping in the morning.

At noon I attended the luncheon of the United Parents Ass'n, where I spoke. This group is facing the challenge to parents in the present and in the immediate future, and certainly there never was a time which presented parents with a greater variety of problems.

Later in the afternoon I went to the reception given by T-Sgt. and Mrs. Joseph Lash, and today I am trying to visit a number of my family and friends here who have been laid low by various ailments.

I often think how fortunate it is that the Lord has kept me so far in such excellent health. I can't think how I would ever have time to be ill, but I suppose the day will come when I will be forced to find time, and how I shall hate it!

THE WPB IS ASKING all of us who speak before groups of people if we will not continue to emphasize the need that exists for conservation and salvage. Paper is their immediate concern.

More Sport Suit Style

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE KIND of sports outfit that can go to town and not look like a yokel at a ball is the most popular kind, today. Sport clothes have to be more versatile now.

One such is sketched, and it gives you the idea perfectly. This is a sort of suit, with a vest for a jacket and a gored skirt. Both are made of heavy black wool. A longsleeved beige sweater blouse is worn under the vest, which sports a gold watch chain as an ornament. This is the kind of suit that is real sports, and that looks good, too, when worn around town.

The hat, the smart ocelot muff and the town gloves are very citified, but quite all right with the suit. This model is worn by Marguerite Chapman of Columbia Pictures.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I am the mother of four children, my oldest boy, 17, having entered the Navy about four months ago. My husband also is in the Navy, serving with the Seabees. I am receiving allotment from the government for all four children. Should I notify the proper authorities that the oldest boy is now in the service or am I still entitled to this money until he becomes of age?

E. T., Malden.

A—You are not entitled to receive allotment for the boy now in the Navy. Notify Officer of Dependency and Benefits, Washington st., Newark, N. J., of his enlistment. $20 will be deducted from your monthly allotment.

Q—My 16-year-old son is in the Maritime Service. Can he make an allotment to me?

R. P., Boston

A—Yes. It will, of course, be a voluntary allotment from his salary.

Q—After serving 10 months in U. S. Army and reaching the age of 45, I was given a discharge which I had requested, to take civilian employment. Am I entitled to mustering-out pay?

N. R., Haverhill

A—You are not eligible for mustering-out pay, but qualify for benefits under GI Bill.

(Editor's note: The above answer also is entered for readers who submitted questions asking if War Dept. Cir. No. 39 and "C" entitled them to mustering-out pay).

Q—I am classified as a prisoner-at-large by the Navy. After given seven days punishment for being AWOL, I became sick before completing sentence and was sent to sick-bay. I am still there, and am informed a discharge is being made out for me. I have 8 months' service overseas. Will I get mustering-out pay, etc. "Sailor", Newport, R. I.

A—Looks as though you are in a tough spot. If you are given a bad conduct discharge you will not receive the $300 muster-out pay, but you are still eligible for GI Bill benefits. If honorable discharge comes through you will receive all benefits.

Q—Is there any way to find out the exact address of a soldier overseas? The serviceman is an acquaintance of mine and I have lost his address. I have his name, but no serial number; also his address while at a camp in Virginia. D. M., Somerville

A—Only immediate members of a serviceman's family are given address of an armed forces' member upon request to Navy or War Departments.

Questions submitted to Veterans' Friend Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass., will be answered in this column published daily in the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser.

Sign of a good housekeeper!

SURE, there's a crown on that door. In a moment it will be gone with a flick of the duster. But right now, it's a sign of good housekeeping, for it shows that an unused bedroom has been closed off to save heat.

There's going to be some shortage of coal delivered to homes this winter. This isn't because less coal is being produced. More coal is being mined this year than last. Mine owners and miners alike are doing a splendid job. And there are ample rail facilities for transporting coal.

But certain grades and sizes of coal are needed for war production. And, in addition, your local coal dealer is suffering from a shortage of manpower, trucks and tires. So be patient with him and make the coal you get go as far as possible.

Be sure your heating system is clean and in good shape. Fire carefully. Pull your shades and draw the drapes at night. Close off unused bedrooms. For other suggestions see your coal dealer.

One of the biggest jobs of the C&O Lines is hauling coal from the mines along its routes, so we're in a position to understand the problem and to know how essential coal is these days.

WLB Okays $25 Yule Bonuses

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (INS)—Chairman William H. Davis of the War Labor Board said employers may give $25 holiday bonuses to employes without approval of the WLB.

He also emphasized they may give bonuses the equivalent of last year's without formal WLB approval—thus virtually eliminating the necessity for employers to come to the board.

He said employers will be permitted to hire any number of temporary employes without counting them under the hiring schedules for regular employes in order to smooth out Christmas hiring problems.

sumed her pitching stance. This time, with so many admirers about, she made her windup a little flossier, but her aim was true, and the rock sailed through the window.

Then, as though realizing time was of the essence, she smashed the windows of four more barrooms, for a total of seven, getting a beauty in Dover st.

She dusted her hands meticulously, called a passing taxi and bade the driver take her hence. The police arrived too late to nab her. They found witnesses too dazed to give a coherent account of it.

One man asserted she had called a broomstick instead of a taxicab and he was so belligerent when police told him he had been eating too much he offered to fight and had to be placed in stir for his own good.

Everyone agreed, however, she wore a purple coat and couldn't have weighed more than 100 pounds. They agreed, too, there was something odd about her hair. No one could remember the color of it but they remembered there hadn't been much of it visible.

"Thinly bald," was the way police wrote it on the blotter.

Thinly bald or not, declared the Dover-Washington st. set, she had a fast one the likes of which hasn't been seen in Fenway Park or Braves Field for many a moon.

Doris Duke Suit Starts 2d Week

RENO, Nov. 13 (AP)—Testimony and depositions in the suit by Doris Duke Cromwell to set aside a New Jersey court decision which itself set aside a Nevada divorce granted to Mrs. Cromwell marked the start today of the second week of the hearing.

In a deposition, William L. Baldwin, business representative for Mrs. Cromwell, had told the court an attempt had been made to induce Mrs. Cromwell to pay $300,000 of the expenses of James H. R. Cromwell's unsuccessful senatorial campaign in New Jersey in 1940.

Baldwin testified that from March, 1937, to May, 1940, Mrs. Cromwell gave her husband $10,000 a month—$426,031.91 in all.

Curb R. R. Trips

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Governmental and private employers were asked today not to grant leaves or time-off to workers, where inter-city travel is involved, from December 15 through January 8.

The request was made by the Office of Defense Transportation in an effort to curb holiday-season travel.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (INS)—The OPA warned today that in no case may regular restaurant prices for Thanksgiving dinners exceed by more than 15 per cent the price for Sunday dinner.

At the same time, the OPA said Thanksgiving dinners in the nation's cafes in 1941 will generally cost the same as last year.

Extra Address Urged On Packages in Mail

Postmaster Patrick J. Connelly today urged all individuals and business firms to adopt for regular mailing the government's regulation governing packages sent overseas.

He disclosed that thousands of packages reached the boys overseas only because a duplicate copy of address was inside the outer wrapper. He explained thousands of civilian packages that break open would reach their destination if a similar procedure was followed in business mailing.

British Wives' Plea Is Futile

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Wives of British soldiers learned today that nothing could be done to assure home leaves for their husbands after three years' service.

More than 1000 wives, in a petition to Prime Minister Churchill, had complained that four or five years of separation greatly diminished their chances of having children and limited the size of families.

Sir James Grigg, war secretary, replied that, because of a shortage of trained reserves, any drastic shortening of overseas service periods would lengthen the war rather than bring the men home sooner.

Jam Session

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (AP) — After years of practice, George V. Haering, 82, is accomplished at repelling holdup men who visit his drug store. He added a new triumph to his record yesterday.

By hurling a jar of strawberry jam, Haering not only frightened the man away but bruised him, and the mark led to the robber's arrest.

WAGE HEARING FRIDAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate hearings on a measure to define wages below 65 cents an hour as "substandard" will begin Friday.

Made of One Yard

by Laura Wheeler

You'll be a target for compliments in either apron—strawberry patch applique or lazy-daisy lilac bouquets.

Two aprons made as shown—each takes one yard of fabric. Pattern 555 has transfer of an 11 x 15" and two 6½ x 7¾" motifs; directions.

This pattern, together with a needlework pattern for personal or household decoration, 15 cents. Send coins to Boston Evening American, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth ave., New York 11, N. Y.

Dancewicz Star for N.D.; Army Has Mighty Club

By JACK CONWAY

A WEEK-END in New York . . . Frank Dancewicz of Lynn playing star role for Notre Dame as Irish was crushed by Army . . . He threw daring, bullet passes as Army linesmen poured through the weak Notre Dame line . . . When the former Lynn Classical player could not get his passes away on time, he ran with the ball, and on one of these occasions he picked up 17 yards through center . . . Dancewicz also did some effective kicking.

The 17-18-19 year old Notre Dame team was badly outclassed by its older and more experienced opponent, but it lived up to the ghost traditions of the "Fighting Irish" and kept battling hard to the bitter end.

"We'll be back next year," said Coach Ed McKeever.

Col. Earl Blaik

If the war in Europe is over by then, the Irish will have more football material.

Two Dead, One Injured on Grid

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—Two football players died of injuries and a third still is in serious condition following the sport's most tragic week-end since the rules were revised in the interest of player-safety a decade and a half ago.

Allen Shafer, 17-year-old University of Wisconsin quarterback, died an hour after suffering internal injuries in the last half of the Badger-Iowa game at Madison, Wis.

Lloyd Motes, 17-year-old senior at Lanier High of Macon, Ga., died Sunday of a fractured vertebrae in his neck, suffered when throwing a block in a game Friday night.

Bob Hellinghausen, 20-year-old center on the Tulsa University team, underwent an operation for the removal of a lacerated spleen yesterday. He was injured in the game with Southwestern of Texas Saturday.

Consider 17 Teams For Orange Bowl

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 13 (AP)—Seventeen teams, eight of them from the South, are still in the running for the New Year's Day Orange Bowl football game, schedule chairman C. F. (Jack) Baldwin said today.

They are: Tennessee, Mississippi State, Georgia Tech, Alabama, Duke, Georgia, Wake Forest and Virginia from the South; Tulsa, Oklahoma A. & M., Texas, T. C. U., Texas A. & M. and Arkansas from the Southwest; Michigan State and Iowa State from the Midwest and Holy Cross from the East.

LaGuardia Moves To Abolish Racing

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (INS)—Mayor F. H. LaGuardia called today for suspension of horse racing until the end of the war, to eliminate the wartime strain on travel facilities.

Enlarging on his opposition to wartime racing meets, expressed in his Sunday radio broadcast, the mayor told newsmen Washington was inconsistent in permitting racing at a time when the ODT was campaigning to eliminate unnecessary travel.

Chelsea Boy Leads Pro Grid in Rushing

DETROIT, Nov. 13 (AP)—Fullback Johnny Grigas, Chelsea, Mass., of the Cardinal-Pittsburgh combination took over the National Football League's individual rushing leadership yesterday by advancing 123 yards in 25 carriers as his team lost a 21 to 7 decision to the Detroit Lions.

Surging Bruins on Edge For Veterans' Fund Tilt

CAPT. BILL COWLEY AND ART JACKSON COME TO AN ABRUPT STOP—In Bruins' preparation for the War Veterans' Fund game with the Chicago Blackhawks sponsored by the American-Record-Sunday Advertiser tomorrow night at the Boston Garden. Both Capt. Bill and young Jackson performed brilliantly for Art Ross in last night's great 5-5 tie in which the Bruins made up a three-goal deficit in the last eight minutes of play.

By BILL GRIMES

Trailing by three goals, with only eight minutes of the final period remaining to be played, the Bruins put on a belated spurt last night in New York and came out with a 5 to 5 tie with the Rangers in Madison Sq. Garden.

The Rossmen are on their way home from New York. They are due to arrive late this afternoon. And, tomorrow night, they will meet the Chicago Blackhawks in their 1944-45 debut at the Boston Garden.

For the third time in as many years, the Bruins are donating their receipts of their opening home game to charity. Two years ago, the entire proceeds went to the American Red Cross, last year it was the Community Fund and tomorrow night, it will be the American-Record-Advertiser Disabled Veterans' Fund.

Mgr. Art Ross and the Boston Garden have been most generous with donations to worthy charities since the start of the war. They contributed $47,000 to the American Red Cross in 1942 and the Greater Boston Community Fund was enriched $22,000 by the receipts of the 1943 opening game.

Tommy Waters, chief of the Garden box office, stated this morning that the indications were that the Bruins and Blackhawks would play to a near capacity house tomorrow.

Although he was disappointed over the letdown the Bruins suffered in the second period last night, Manager Art Ross was delighted over the third period comeback.

"We outplayed the Rangers all night," declared Art Ross, "but, we made enough mistakes in the second period to almost cost us the game.

"During the opening game of the season, I thought the Canadiens were 'high'" continued the Boss Man of the Bruins "But, you should have seen those Rangers before last night's tilt. They'd beaten the Red Wings on Saturday and boy, their tails were up.

"Until last night, I hadn't seen the team in a league game for a fortnight. However, I could see them coming along during the practise sessions last week at the Arena. They were sluggish in Detroit two weeks ago. They didn't look like the same club last night, particularly in the first and third periods. And, of course, it wasn't the same club, for since we were in Detroit, we've acquired Bill Jennings, Gino Rozzini and Armand Gaudreault, who have given the team more speed and a better offense."

Bill Cupolo and Herbie Cain tallied for the Bruins early in the opening period last night and the Rossmen had a one-goal lead going into the middle chapter, during which the Rangers beat Harvey Bennett three times and Ken McAuley held them scoreless.

Bob Dill counted for Rangers in the final chapter and with eight minutes and two seconds to go, the Rossmen were on the short end of a 5 to 2 count. At 11:57, the Bruins were three goals down. At 13:33, one minute and thirty seconds later, they were "all flat" at 5-5.

Gino Rozzini, the rookie up from the Quebec Aces, started the third period scoring, assisted by Art Jackson and Jack Crawford. Then Capt. Bill Cowley took over and scored twice in thirty-four seconds, aided and abetted by Pat Egan, Herbie Cain and Jack Crawford.

The Toronto Maple Leafs went down to their first defeat in seven games last night in Detroit, when they were beaten by the Red Wings 4 to 2 and the Blackhawks lost their third home game when they fell before Les Canadiens by the same score.

Salem, Peabody To Go Into Huddle

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Championships are practically a dime a dozen this year. Ever since the Melrose game back on Columbus Day every Malden contest has been for the state title. Somerville tipped over the Malden apple cart and now the Peabody-Salem game, that may be played this Saturday, is being billed as the championship game.

And well it may! For Peabody's Tanners are leading the Class A list, closely followed by Salem and Malden is back in third place only .33 off the leading pace.

As nearly everybody knows by this time the Peabody-Salem affair was scheduled for Sunday. A disagreement over the playing site caused the postponement until an agreeable later date.

Tonight's meeting in the Salem High School administration building will tell the tale. The committees of both schools will get together again and try to iron out the kinks.

Peabody's Jack Burke is enthusiastic about the chances of everything going smoothly for this time both schools have everything to lose.

Peabody has a great opportunity to capture the crown. It must get by Salem and Beverly to do it. Salem isn't mathematically out of it either. Salem victories over Peabody and Gloucester and provided Malden bows to Everett or Medford, could propel the "Witches" to the top.

As for that game with Nashua Burke has notified the New Hampshire authorities that all negotiations are off until Tuesday when the big matter at hand will have been settled.

Manning Bowl is definitely open on Saturday. Salem wants to play—whether it will accept the Bowl bid is another matter—and Peabody would like a clear shot at the state title. With all this it's a sure bet that the two will get together this Saturday with the state title in the offing.

Fran Rooney and Plato Sarmos were the big guns in Somerville's victory over Malden but three linemen come in for a great part of the glory.

Charley Escott proved his right conclusively to an All Scholastic berth with his great play at center. His tackles stopped several Malden plays before they were started and his interception of a sure "td" pass down on the five saved the game for Somerville.

The guards, Gino Izzi and Patsy Socorsso, flanking Escott, helped make a center barrier that couldn't be penetrated by a truck.

For Malden, Nick Belisis established himself as one of the best back in the state and Alger Macy, the left end, was outstanding in his department.

At the Football Writers' Luncheon at the Kenmore last week Coach Dave Lucey of Saugus divulged the plans of the winner of the Peabody-Salem game to play Saugus in a post-season game. Why not match the loser with Somerville and stage the star studded doubleheader for the War Veterans' Fund, or some other worthy charity?

★ ★ ★

St. Mary's of Brookline has something to be proud of today. Coach Jim Jordan's team won the Catholic League Division I title yesterday by drubbing Cathedral and it was the first time ever. Johnny Trahon, the Saints' star back, scored three touchdowns and one point after to run his total to almost 100. May be the state's high scorer!

★ ★

Other than the shift in Class A standings the other three groups stayed the same over that unpredictable week-end.

Saugus still holds its lead over Chelsea in Class B, Marlboro is away out front in Class C and Northbridge stayed on top of Class D, although if Central Catholic had beaten Keith, the Lawrence team would lead.

Fran Rooney Seeks To Join Coast Guard

Will the Somerville High eleven lose the services of Fran Rooney for the Thanksgiving game with Rindge? That is the question which arose today when it became known that Rooney is seeking to join the Coast Guard.

With no practice scheduled by Coach Tom Lynch for today, Rooney, with papers signed by his father, was to present himself as a volunteer in the Coast Guard.

Rooney, who becomes 18 shortly before Thanksgiving, may be called into service on that day. Should this happen, he would be unable to romp against Rindge.

He will play Saturday against St. Clements, but if his services were lost to the team for the holiday game it would leave the task of carrying the pigskin up to Phillion, Balboni or some other back.

Rooney is considered one of the shiftiest scat backs to be developed this year and his loss would be felt by the team.

Sarno Discloses Flash in Seymour

By HUCK FINNEGAN

One week from next Saturday, when Boston College and Holy Cross meet at Fenway Park, Tom Seymour will quarterback the Eagles.

Until he matriculated at The Heights this fall, Seymour had played all of his football for Ogdensburg (N. Y.) High School. He is 17 years old and weighs 165 but since Eddie Cronin was injured he has been Head Coach Moody Sarno's most dependable half back.

During the first half of the Brooklyn game yesterday, Seymour warmed the bench and at halftime, the Eagles trailed 12 to 21.

Realizing that he had to have someone in the lineup spark the Eagles in the second half, Coach Sarno sent Seymour into the backfield and the boy from the Empire State gave Boston College a tremendous lift.

In the third period, Seymour put the Eagles back in the game by intercepting a Brooklyn forward pass on his own 42-yard line. Then he rifled a pass to Griffin for a net gain of 31 yards setting up a touchdown which moved the Eagles to within three points of their opponents.

"We had a close call yesterday," confessed Coach Sarno, "It was far too close for comfort. For some unknown reason, the Eagles could not get organized in the first half. We made too many mistakes in the first and second period. Even more distressing was the fact that we couldn't get rolling.

"Between the halves, I made some minor changes in our defense and managed to stop the Brooklynites. In my opinion, Seymour furnished the spark that was responsible for us coming from behind and getting out with a 24-21 victory."

For the next ten days, Coach Sarno will drive his squad at top speed for Holy Cross. He realizes that the Eagles are stepping out of their class tackling the Crusaders. But, he also realizes that he has a game bunch of kids wearing the old gold and maroon this year. They are lacking in experience but not in courage. They can be relied upon to battle "The Cross" from the opening kickoff to the final whistle.
